THE GOUT PREVENTION PLAYBOOK

7 Evidence-Based Habits to Reduce Flare-Ups

Brought to you by GoutWize
Real patterns from real people living with gout

Why This Playbook Works

Doctors often give general advice for managing gout. But what actually works can vary from person to person.

This playbook distills patterns from the GoutWize community — real experiences supported by scientific research.

Use this guide to:

- Identify your personal triggers
- Build habits that reduce flare risk
- Track what works for YOUR body

The key to gout prevention is recognizing patterns early and adjusting your habits accordingly.

Habit 1 — Master Your Stress

The Pattern

68% of sufferers report stress as a major trigger.

Action Step

Practice 5 minutes of daily breathing or relaxation.

Track it:
☐ Identify stress signals
☐ Watch irritability or poor sleep
☐ Log stressful days

Habit 2 — Rethink Your Beer

The Pattern

Beer shows a 3× higher flare risk compared to wine or spirits.

Action Step

Replace beer with alcohol-free alternatives or wine in moderation.

☐ Track alcohol intake
☐ Note symptoms within 48 hours

Habit 3 — Hydrate Like It's Your Job

The Pattern

Consistent hydration is linked to 34% fewer flares.

☐ Drink 8–10 glasses daily
☐ Start morning with 2 glasses

Habit 4 — Protect Your Sleep

The Pattern

Three bad sleep nights can double flare risk.

☐ No screens 1 hour before bed
☐ Keep bedroom cool
☐ Maintain bedtime routine

Habit 5 — Try Tart Cherry Juice

1–2 tablespoons daily for 2–4 weeks.

Habit 6 — Travel Smart

> Hydrate before flights and move every hour.

> Habit 7 — Build Your Personal Trigger Map
>
> Review the 48 hours before every flare to identify patterns.

Your 30-Day Roadmap

Week	Focus	Goal
Week 1	Hydration	Start trigger log + 8 glasses daily
Week 2	Sleep	Consistent bedtime
Week 3	Supplement	Test tart cherry juice
Week 4	Review	Analyze patterns
